

GÜNTER FEUERSTEIN

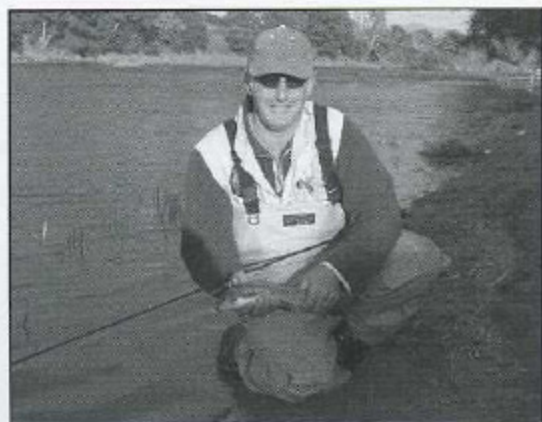

Günter Feuerstein, born in 1965 in Austria, lives in Switzerland where he works as a teacher and runs an international fly fishing school(UFC®). He is well known worldwide for his fly casting abilities and has had a great impact on the international fly casting scene.

He is known for several trick casts and techniques which have found their way into modern fly fishing with one-handed and also two-handed rods, (e.g. High Hauling, Snap-T, Jump Roll, etc.). He has co-ordinated the FFF-Europe Flycasting Instructor Certification Programme since its very beginning and has demonstrated fly casting at major shows in Europe and the States. Günter is also the president of an angling club and the IKFA, a large international organisation representing 16 angling clubs along the Alpine River Rhine. He is often consulted by universities and fishery boards for his practical knowledge on trout and grayling - based on their "bio-logic", as he puts it. Presently he is working on two books and produces videos about fly fishing and fishery biology. He especially likes fishing for spooky trout in Montana, Idaho and the Yellowstone, and for the huge Danube Salmon (hucho hucho) in the large Austrian rivers. You can see more on his website at www.g-feuerstein.com, and we are pleased to see him back on the River Derwent where he last demonstrated for us in 1996.
